The consumer has the right to terminate the contract within 14 days from the date of the conclusion of the contract on the purchase of the product without requiring the reason. Unilateral termination exempts the consumer from all contractual obligations, except for the immediate cost of returning goods.

In the case of a termination of the contract, the consumer is entitled to refund or exchange for another product. The price of goods will be returned to the consumer after the goods are returned to the retailer's headquarters from where it was sent to the subder. The merchant has the right to withhold the price if it determines that the goods are not in the correct condition, because the consumer has inadequately or improperly handled the goods. When returning goods, it is mandatory to return in the correct and unused condition and the original unattended packaging. The cost of returning goods and money is assumed by the consumer, only in cases where the consumer receives a faulty or misleading item. The data provided in this form is used to log changes in the trade of goods and ZTKR "Confectionement Ellipse" will not be used for other purposes. If the consumer decides not to replace another product, this right may be achieved in accordance with the terms of purchase highlighted on the company's website.
